

How electronic evidence can help win cases.

As the recent Microsoft® case exemplifies, electronic evidence - deleted word processing files, emails and the like - is becoming an increasingly important element in your discovery mix. Such evidence can literally make or break cases.

New Technologies, Inc. can partner with you to formulate case strategy, uncover "lost" evidence...and provide support if your case goes to trial. NTI is a nationally recognized, time-tested expert in electronic evidence discovery and computer security; we're the people who train other computer forensics experts. We don't merely run searches; we use our investigative skills and superior technology to take you places you can't go alone to uncover evidence that helps you reach favorable outcomes.

To learn how NTI can assist in your next intellectual property case, call 503-661-6912 or visit www.dataforensics.com.
